

Frequently Asked Questions

How can I know if I qualify to participate in this study?

If you are aged 18 or above and have a diagnosis of Multiple Sclerosis you can participate in this study.

What can I expect?

If you agree to take part in this study, you will be given a 54-item questionnaire that should take you between 15 to 20 minutes to complete.

Are there any risks to me?

There are no risks or inconveniences anticipated in terms of participating in this study.

How will my participation benefit me?

You may or may not benefit from this study. You may gain more knowledge and awareness about your own quality of life with MS, but no benefits are guaranteed. You will not receive any profits, legal entitlements, or other commercial benefits from the study.

Are my answers confidential?

Your personal information will be respected and kept confidential. You will not be identified by name in any reports or products of the completed study. All printed documents will be identified by code numbers and retained by Vivo Infusion in a secured location with limited access. Unidentified (anonymous) data from this study may be combined with data from other studies to present findings from a larger group of participants.

Will I be paid?

You will not be paid for allowing your Quality-of-Life tool input to be used in this study.

Do I have to participate?

Your participation in this study is entirely voluntary and you may exit at any time.

Are there any additional expectations of my participation?

At a later date, you may be invited to participate in additional activities to evaluate future aspects of the Quality-of-Life tool. Participation in this study does not obligate you to participate in future evaluations.

Can I get a copy of the study results?

Any published results of the study will be made available to you.

Do I need to worry about any conflicts of interests?

There are no known actual, apparent, potential, or perceived conflicts of interest in conducting this study.